Before his marriage Mr. Ratcliff taught school for a time, but since he married he has been a farmer. In ear- ly manhood he joined the Christian church at Westport, and has been crown always for his kindly spirit and neighborly courtesies. Mr. Ratcliff was a frequent visitor in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Brown, and made

A short service conducted by the Rev. George W. Boswell, pastor of the New Castle Methodist church, was held at the home for those who could not come to LaGrange with the body, among them being Mrs. Ratcliff, the widow, who is ill. When the train reached LaGrange it was met by friends who came immediately to the Valley of Rest, where a service was held in charge of the Rev. J. W. Crates, pastor of the LaGrange Methodist church. After reading many passages of Scripture Mr. Crates spoke on the thought, "Prepare to Meet Thy God"

The pallbearers were Messrs. James, Dall and Sam Ratcliff, nephews of the deceased, and Messrs. John Worier, Shelby Adams and Clarence Moore, neighbors.

Those from a distance attending the service in LaGrange were: Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ratcliff of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. John Worier, Mrs. Zack LaMaster, and Mr. Horace Ratcliff of New Castle, and Mrs. Eugene Belwood of Cropper, Miss Ellen Brown of Chicago. Many friends attended the service at the home who did not come to the grave.
